

charity

Equal Futures are a charity that support the creation of lasting relationships for people with a learning disability and their families. We help people plan to reach their goals, build social connections, and stay safe with our Circles of Support model.

equal

The charity was set up in 2002 by a group of parents who have a family member with a learning disability. The aim was to help families plan for the future to ensure that their relative lives a good and equal life.

community

Our community is here to support people with a learning disability to live an equal life to their peers, and assure their loved ones of a safe, fulfilled future. We welcome anyone who would like to contribute to our goals and those of the people we support.

leaders

We are part of the Thera Group of charities and not-for-profits, a collection of organisations who share a vision of a society where people with a learning disability can be leaders.

Circles of Support

Circles of Support

Our Circle of Support model creates a structure for a person with a learning disability to achieve their dreams and goals. A group of people – including family and friends – work together with the person to help them live their best lives. Our project co-ordinators will be there to support from setup to something that can continue beyond Equal Futures.
