

Stacey's profile

What people appreciate about me:

My colleagues say I am very organised and like to have my days planned out well. I also like a to-do list!!

My husband says that I am too particular and likes things 'just right' around the house.

My picture

My family and friends say I am always happy to help and always go out my way to help people when they need it.

What is important to me:

My husband, my 2 sons and daughter – they keep me on my toes.

My car, I love the independence it gives me, and I am also useless with public transport.

My mobile phone – would be lost without my phone

My family – we go on lots of family holidays together and this is something I really look forward

How to support me:

I prefer when communication is clear and to the point.

I like to receive feedback – even the negative.

I prefer to have instructions written down for me to follow.

If I have been given a task to complete, I like time to process this, and the opportunity to ask questions before getting started.

I like to know timescales and deadlines well in advance as I don't like missing deadlines or being late.